Headteacher Ms F Keeling

Living life to the full

Dear Albourne Family,

We have been very proud of the children, how they have settled back into school, focussed on their learning and coped with the heat this week. They have started our new writing project, Write...The Albourne Way, which you will be hearing more about next week at meet the teacher.

Everyone is extremely excited about the new Robins starting on Monday and a big thank you to Mr Wilkes, Ms Goddard and Mrs Tagarsi for all the work they have put into the Robin's classroom and outside area.

Welcome to our lunchtime sports coaches, who will be leading a lunchtime activity every day.

Thank you to Blake's dad who took some amazing photographs before the summer. We have had some put on canvas, on our new website coming soon and matched to our values – on the left.

C Conjunction: (Even though it was raining, he would not use his raincoat.)
E 'of' (Pleased with what he had done, he stood back and admired his work.)
Use personification (Lightning danced across the sky.)
Use a metaphor (The oldest trees in the forest were noble giants, keeping a gentle eye over the goings on far below.)

At night the temperature dropped.

The following morning she continued the course of the stream, as she slowly ran, she could hear the bird calls, the monkey bats and shrieks, whistles and the sound of her breathing.

She could see the vines hanging from the mossy trees. Suddenly she spotted. The lioness looked at the snakes slithering beside the stream almost as if they were racing her.

Suddenly she also spotted some fruit dangling from a branch of a tree,

U Towering The following morning she continued slowly along the course of the stream, listening to the sounds of nature. Towering trees as old as the rainforest, stood above her, guiding her on her way. The previous night, the shadows had been as dark as and impenetrable as the House of Night. Under the bright, sunlit canopy of trees, the light danced on the ripples of the take stream. As tall as Big Ben, the trees all stood, but which he made them impossible to climb. Quickly, she brushed her hair through the

she is swimming, snakes slither through the trees. Hurriedly she was, seeing the snakes. Dead trees or were bleached skeletons, trying to grab her soul. The vines ^{were} slithered like snakes, ready to consume their next prey. When she stopped for a break, she ~~was~~ could feel fish, rushing through her toes.

Rory, you are following The Albourne Way

Thank you to Lonnie and Rory from the Kestrels for their wonderful work from this week in Write...The Albourne Way.
